TRI is Honored with 2014 National Library of Medicine Honor Awards

Bethesda, Maryland (December 3, 2014): TRI is pleased to announce TRI staff members have been honored with two National Library of Medicine (NLM) Honor Awards under the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services during the 2014 NLM Honor Awards Ceremony taking place at the Lister Hill Auditorium.

The NLM Honor Awards recognizes individuals or groups for their outstanding accomplishments and achievements. TRI was presented with a group award for exceptional contributions in the planning, management, and execution of the successful May 14, 2014 Symposium, "The National Library of Medicine, 1984-2014: Voyaging to the Future" during which the NLM reviewed the past 30 years and considered future opportunities as background for the next NLM long-range planning effort. TRI was also presented with a group award for the timely development of a chemical record in the Hazardous Substances Data Bank (HSDB) involved in the Elk River, West Virginia spill that affected the water of thousands of households.
